Mrs. Nellie McClung Lectures On "Women as Last Reserves"

Over Three Hundred People Present

A large crowd gathered in the Oyen Opera House on Wednesday evening last to hear Mrs. Nellie McClung lecture on "Women as Last Reserves," and the lecture was most interesting and held the audience from start to finish.

Mr. J. Howard Alexander, who was chairman, introduced the speaker.

During the evening Miss L. Evans ably sang solo. Also chorists were played by the Oyen Orchestra.

In her introductory remarks, Mrs. McClung said, we were living in times when no one would deny that there is something wrong with the world. There never was a time in the history when so many hearts were so sore as so many homes desolate. She told how 500,000 children under five years old had starved to death in the war zone. Now women have got to improve matters. We cannot call the angels down, and if women can't mend things then the world is doomed, for women are the last reserves.

Mrs. McClung pointed out how the Canadian people were divided by differences of race and religion and how the women must make it their business to weld together these fragments and so become a united people. She spoke of the strange creed by so many democracies, each struggling to support their own cause in these small towns when there were large forces of land with no machinery of any kind, and complimented Oyen on being broad-minded enough to hold inter-Confederation and last together in one Union Church.

Then the women must also take their share in the politics of their country. The trouble in the world today was due to the fact that it had only been half represented. If there had been world wide women suffrage there could never have been this war for it was impossible to think of a soldier with a son of his own giving per consent to the wholesale murder of other women's sons. The motherliness and deep devotion of the children for him in his battle with life, but God never meant them to rule the world alone. He meant these characteristics should be united with women's gentleness and constructiveness to make a perfect balance and a complete whole. Then the women must make the welfare of the children their especial care. She spoke of the moving pictures as a splendid means of education if it were only used in the right way. The women must be public spirited enough to find out what these were being taught in the minds of our boys and girls through this medium and to see to it that the pictures shown are those that will educate and inspire them to arrive after the highest ideals in life.

The world during this war has learned the value of women. A reformer soldier tells how he was freed of administration for the brave nurses in France who stayed calmly at their duty even when the hospitals in which they were working were being shelled. It was aristocratic for a woman to be idle before the war, but now it is necessary for a woman to work if she wishes to retain her old respect. There are 800,000 women working in the munition factories alone in England and in France there are women, who rather than leave the grain unharvested, have themselves dragged the plough. These women will never again return to idleness.

Some men and women in this country here still not realize their responsibility in this war. She told how, in former times how he was holding his wheat in the hope that he may not be a head if he waited long enough, reasonable demands in the war-stricken countries are starving to death. In this a sample of the men our brave boys are giving their lives for?

Mrs. McClung gave a very graphic description of the escape of a French lady during the first German drive, when her beautiful house and estate were devastated beyond redemption. That lady is now returning in the States and sending back to France

300 a day to support a hospital in Paris for the wounded soldiers.

We, in Canada, are so far away from this firing line that it is hard to realize the terrible struggle that is going on, and the suffering of the civilian population. When we live in such plenty all around us it is hard to realize that there are so many starving over there, but we must save and we must work, for we can have nothing to hope for if we lose.

Mrs. McClung illustrated very forcibly by telling how when in the States she met a German woman, Madam Devopert, who was lecturing there and Mrs. McClung, on being introduced to her, expressed her regret that she could not be able to attend the lecture as she was herself to be speaking that night. Madam Devopert offered Mrs. McClung the consolation that if she had been able to attend she would not have managed to escape in the building was always full when she lectured. Mrs. McClung gratefully congratulated her.

Madam Devopert, proceeding said "It was her efficiency that drew such large crowds. There were no women as efficient or as cultured as the German women." At this several of the ladies around gently reminded her of the heroine of Kaiserland that they had certainly not very efficient Albert women, also French and English women were very splendid women too.

Madam Devopert replied, "No, there is no nation in the world like the German nation, they were the first to make a difference that will win this war. This enthusiastic way in which she spoke caused great indignation in the circle, and one replied, "The Germans certainly showed their efficiency in Belgium; they have been a soldier there that there is not much left, is there?" "Belgium is served all she got," answered Madam Devopert. In yet thick, then, "Germany did right?" asked Mrs. McClung. "No nation has any rights that is not serving enough to enforce," answered Madam Devopert. Mrs. McClung explained that she had read that there were the sealings of the German people, but to actually hear them expressed made one's blood boil.

She quietly remarked to the lady, as if changing a disagreeable subject, "Your beautiful shawl she was wearing 'yes,'" said Madam Devopert. "It is beautiful, is it not? I got it when I was in Vienna." "Well," said Mrs. McClung, advancing towards her, "I am both bigger and stronger than you are, is there any reason why I should not take your shawl?" "Oh," said Madam Devopert, backing away in a startled manner, "I believe in law and order." "No," said Mrs. McClung, "not unless it suits you; but I do believe in law and order; so your shawl is safe," Madam Devopert. Then Mrs. McClung left the room and when a few minutes after her daughter asked her she told her mother that the only thing that efficient German woman could think of to say was, "My sweet cat."

"Of course," Mrs. McClung added "There are those German people who left their own land to avoid this military, and who have a different spirit, but this was what the Kaiser's lot lower believed."

Mrs. McClung closed her lecture with an appeal to the women to be strong and clever way, and Mrs. McClung herself is a charming personality.

Farm Boys' Camp

Have Been Very Successful During the Last Two Years

One of the outstanding features of agricultural education in Western Canada is the Farm Boys' Camp, which will again be conducted in connection with the Saskatchewan Provincial Exhibition at Regina in July. These camps have been very successful during the last two years, and this year's is intended to be on a larger scale than the previous ones.

The camp is somewhat similar to those conducted in connection with the state fairs of the United States, with, perhaps, this difference: The camp at Regina will be conducted more along the lines of an educational institution, being virtually a short course in agriculture and animal husbandry for farm boys under the direction of the provincial department of agriculture, and is not to be looked upon as an outing and a reward for accomplishments on the farm. It is felt, however, that unless boys have in some way qualified for a place in the camp, they will not fully appreciate its advantages, and hence will not receive the full benefit at the training. The associations have, therefore, been asked that in choosing their terms, preference be given to those boys who have won prizes in calf, colt or other competitions.

Teams of five boys each will be chosen to represent the various agricultural associations throughout the province, and it is expected that at least 500 boys will attend the camp this year.

Higher Heights to Climb

We are only beginning to realize the danger confronting us, only beginning to understand the full measure of the task laid upon our people. So far, we have been able to serve. To be able to do a little while in the life of the individual, as a moment in the life of a nation, but it is a little while in which all our energies, all our means must be bent to a single purpose. Canada has played a noble part during nearly four years but there remain yet higher heights to climb—Montreal Gazette.

Canadian Self-Defence

Why the shortage of tonnage forces the allies in Europe to rely on this continent for food may be explained by the fact that while 1,000 tons of shipping will move 3,000 tons of food from here to Europe, it will require 10,000 tons to be required to move the same quantity from Argentina and 15,000 from Australia. That is, the longer haul would require two and three times as much tonnage. By our self-reliance in export foods we are solving the submarine menace. —Toronto Mail and Empire.

"A Decent Form of Polygamy"

The question of allowing Germans have several times as many wives as they are entitled to is the only remedy for the shortage of German fathers. Germany has lost a considerable portion of its noblest racial blood. This is a painful idea. A decent form must be found for this kind of polygamy, which is the only way of combating the birth-rate reduction. —Politisch-Anthropologische Monatschrift, Berlin, last week in February.

How to Make Potato Butter

Potato butter is recommended by the British ministry of food as a cheap substitute for butter, being made in England at a cost of less than 10 cents per pound, as follows: Peel the potatoes and boil until they fall to pieces and become floury. Then rub through a fine sieve into a warmed basin. Add 4 ounces of potato and add 2 ounces of butter or margarine and 1 teaspoonful of salt. Stir until smooth and then mold into rolls and keep in a cool place. To make the appearance acceptable use butter coloring, and it is intended to keep beyond a few days, a butter preservative should be added.

Dookhobors to Stay

Vergin Closes Deal for 10,000 Acres of Prairie Land

Peter Vergin, leader of the Dookhobors in Western Canada, has just consummated a deal for 10,000 acres of prairie land near Killarney, Sask., the payments for which have extended over a period of 10 years and the payments for the first year have been made. Vergin has given his word that he will not in any case return to Russia within that period of time.

"This proves," he said, "that our people are not going to return to Russia. Our religion prohibits us from fighting, but we are doing everything in our power to get the war from a standpoint of production. We have taken no oath of fealty to the British crown; our beliefs forbid us to swear allegiance to any king but Jesus Christ."

A Mental Error

Where the Passenger Was When He Wasn't

A well-known provincial paper in England makes itself responsible for the following story: "The trancer was hopelessly over-grown and fat, and he had achieved the 'per deck' were transgressing all regulations by standing. 'Now, then,' called out the girl conductor with emphasis, 'you can't stand on the deck, whether we can or not.' The girl answered nothing, but promptly pressed a button. The car, which was crowded, immediately took a seat on the floor. When she said the girl, apparently very young, had used the little emergency button in a famous play, 'The Trancer' was a comedy. —Christian Science Monitor.

Canadian Captain Foils Hun

Captured by Submarine He Knocks German Down and Dives

A solid British and the opportunity arrival of an allied destroyer saved Capt. D. J. McDonald, skipper of the three-masted schooner, the Albatross, when it was being captured by a German submarine. Captain McDonald told the story on his arrival on an American ship.

The U-boat had fired a torpedo into the schooner, and the captain from a Canadian port to Europe. The submarine commander had ordered Capt. McDonald, whose home is in Prince Edward Island, into the under-craft. While some of the men crew were busy on the sinking schooner, arrangements were made for the U-boat, the two captains stood by the unopened conning tower as spectators.

"I'm going to take you to Germany for a stroll and see how you like the German commander intended to do it." "Are you?" queried Captain McDonald, whereupon he swung his fist to the German's jaw and the U-boat commander fled, McDonald climbed out of the conning tower and dived into the sea. He swam deep to avoid being shot.

There was wreckage floating and good fortune brought McDonald to the surface behind it, so that he was hidden from the sight of the enraged submarine crew.

During their search for him a destroyer hove in sight and the German commander abandoned the schooner and the U-boat fled.

An Informal Visit

A member of the American Lafayette squadron had to make a precipitate descent and was fortunate enough to come down in a glider, a parachute behind the lines, not, however, without mixing up things a bit.

After rescuing himself from the tangled wires he landed slowly up to a "brass hat."

"Are you the big noise of this outfit?" he asked.

"I am the commanding officer, if that has anything to do with it," was the reply.

"Well," said the American, "I just looked in to tell you I have spread the petrol tank on your grass plot."

Britain's Economic Strength Amazing Financial Strength The Difference Between Victory and Defeat The wonderful economic strength and endurance of Britain is strikingly illustrated by the fact that after she is as Mr. Bonar Law pointed out in connection with the new budget, self-supporting. "It is only necessary for us to lean on the United States for the amount the other allies lean on us," he said. "In other words, we are self-supporting." This amazing financial strength of Britain is to the allies the difference between victory and defeat. The war has cost more than $100,000,000,000. Dog Meat for British Urged Lord Claud Hamilton Suggests All "Toy" Animals Be Killed and Eaten Lord Claud Hamilton suggested recently in England that all "toy" dogs be killed and eaten. He told of having seen a woman dressed in a fur-trimmed coat and a hat with a large feather, who she held five ribbons of fur around her neck, which were attached as many dogs.

All the "doggy" folk immediately protested against his suggestion, but he calmly replied through the medium of the press that the consumption of the dogs would help the food shortage on the one hand by providing a supply of edible food and on the other by saving the amount of food consumed by the animals.

This is only one of several suggestions made in Britain in the interest of food economy, but the suggestion has not met with much support. The dog defenders have a large following.

Lady Algernon, Gordon-Lennox writes to the press asking permission to bring to the notice of the British dogs' welfare association. In her letter she says: "I have recently been demonstrated beyond a shadow of doubt that an exceptionally high class of wool can be spun from the combings of all sorts of long-haired dogs—Spaniels, from chow, poodles, pointers, bolognas, dalmatians and shagbuds. I have found that wool experts, who are emphatic in their commendations of the quality of the wool, are also the best judges of the quality of the wool."

Tired after sewing!

What a common experience, whether the work is done by hand or machine. It is not so much on account of the muscular exertion as because of the strain on the eyes.

You feel tired all over, because the nerves are exhausted. The optic nerve, which controls sight, is extremely sensitive, and when in constant use consumes nerve force at a tremendous rate. If the nervous system is not in good, healthy condition, this strain is more than you can stand, and you have headaches, and feel all tired out.

Many people feel the same way after a shopping tour, from riding on a train, or doing any work which requires the continued use and focusing of the eyes. If you are wearying of the eyes, when what you really need is a nerve restorative, such as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, to build up the exhausted nervous system.

By supplying to the tired, wornout nerves the elements from which new nerve force is created Dr. Chase's Nerve Food reconstructs the wasted nerve cells. Headaches, dizzy spells, sleeplessness and tired feelings soon disappear, and you find yourself feeling better in every way.

It is worth your while to give this treatment a thorough trial, for the whole system is benefited, and the results are lasting.

A member of the American Lafayette squadron had to make a precipitate descent and was fortunate enough to come down in a glider, a parachute behind the lines, not, however, without mixing up things a bit.

After rescuing himself from the tangled wires he landed slowly up to a "brass hat."

"Are you the big noise of this outfit?" he asked.

"I am the commanding officer, if that has anything to do with it," was the reply.

"Well," said the American, "I just looked in to tell you I have spread the petrol tank on your grass plot."

OBTUARY

Word has been received that on Wednesday, May 25th, occurred the death of Mr. Lewis H. Sherry at his home in Packwood, Iowa.

Mr. Sherry has been ill for some time, suffering from a stroke of paralysis which he had about four years ago, the effect of which had left him practically helpless. About one year ago he was taken to the hospital in Milwaukee, Wis., where it was hoped that he might gain in strength and possibly in health. From there he was taken to Packwood, where he lived with his wife and daughter until death relieved him of his sufferings, having had the 5th stroke of paralysis.

Mr. Sherry was an old veteran of the Civil War, and after having served four years in the army he spent about a year chasing the Indians through the middle west and by his experiences was able to tell some gruesome Indian tales.

Lewis H. Sherry was born July 29, 1846, in Columbus, Ohio. Six years ago he came with his wife and one son to Canada, and took up a homestead 12 miles south-west of Oyen, where he resided until his illness compelled him to leave about a year ago.

There are left to mourn his loss a wife, four daughters and two sons. Mrs. J. Cox, Mrs. H. Smith and Mrs. Leckhart, of Packwood; and Mrs. A. H. Heath, Clarence and Joan Sherry, of Oyen.

The late Mr. Sherry was also a member of the Mosaic Lodge.
